

Michael R. Reed

Michael Reed is professor of Agricultural Economics and director of International Programs for Agriculture at the University of Kentucky (UKy). He also directs the graduate program in Agricultural Economics. Reed holds a Ph.D. in economics (with a minor in statistics) from Iowa State University (1979); he has been at the UKy since 1978. He also holds a Doctor Honoris Causa (Honorary Ph.D.) from Bucharest University of Agricultural Sciences and Veterinary Medicine (Romania).

Reed's principal area of research and teaching is international trade in agricultural products. His research includes the effects of macroeconomic policies and exchange rates on U.S. food exports, the dynamics of consumer demand in various countries, and the effects of competition patterns on world agricultural trade patterns. He has been coauthor of papers receiving the outstanding journal article award from the Journal of Agricultural and Applied Economics and the Journal of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers. He has made invited addresses in Armenia, China, Indonesia, Korea, Oman, Romania, Serbia, and Thailand. He has over 55 refereed journal articles and has served as director for 24 M.S. theses and 30 Ph.D. dissertations during his tenure at UKy.

Reed has the most widely used textbook in agricultural trade—International Trade in Agricultural Products, published by Prentice-Hall (also published in China and Indonesia)—and has been published widely in the area of agricultural trade and commodity price analysis. He was also coeditor of a book entitled Competitiveness in International Food Markets (Westview Press).

Reed has wide-ranging international experience. He was executive director of the Center for Agricultural Export Development during its life (1988–1995) and has been an international consultant for many organizations, including The Economist Intelligence Unit, Schaeffer Global Group, the U.S. Agency for International Development, Chemonics International, and various university and government organizations.

Reed has been married to his wife, Gail, since 1973. They have two children, Laura and Brian. Laura and her husband Kurt live in Chicago, Illinois with two children, Isabel and Charlie. Brian and his wife Jenna live in Austin, Texas.
